

ANIMAL crossword

ACROSS

5. This kind of cow can produce up to 128 glasses of milk in one day.
 7. The wool from this animal is sheared and used for clothing, blankets, carpets, insulation and even on piano hammers.
 9. These are put in the ear of livestock to identify each animal for their health and for food safety.
 11. One of the earliest domesticated animals, they are used for milk, meat and their hide. Both males and females have beards!
 12. This kind of poultry, raised for meat, is called a broiler.
 14. A layer chicken, called a hen, can make (lay) up to 320 of these in one year.

DOWN

1. This kind of doctor looks after farm animals or pets.
 2. This pollinator was introduced to N. America from Europe in 1622 and is known for the sweet food and wax it produces.
 3. Open grassland that farm animals, like beef cattle, dairy cows, sheep, and goats, can graze on.
 4. Herds of this large mammal used to roam wild on the Prairies and are now farmed for their meat and hides.
 5. This animal is often used to guard sheep, keeping them safe from coyotes and other predators.
 6. This keeps farm animals inside a pasture and predators out.
 8. This animal can farrow (give birth to) up to 16 babies at once.
 9. An adult male is a Tom and a female is a Hen. Thanksgiving meals often feature this animal.
 10. While these animals are raised for beef to eat, all of the other parts of the animal are used to make other products like cosmetics, soaps, glue, crayon and leather items.
 13. Used on ranches and for recreational riding, these animals can also be used for their pulling power on farms.